

The 5 Qualities of

Healthy Leadership

Strategic Vision

With the essential at the fore, leaders drive vision, strategic direction and qualities of culture and leadership. Fresh goals being established, vigilance is upkept to ensure operational efficiency & thrive.

People Passion

Great leaders employ inspiring ways of establishing direction and inclusion. Loving their work, their passion and human warmth rubs off onto those around them.

Healthy leaders are resilient – way more creative than reactive. They integrate altruistic values and quality consciousness into leading by inspiring example.

Authenticity & Transparency are foundational to effective leadership. Are you living up to it? Embodying these two will make you walk the talk.

Clarity of Communication is essential for leaders to integrate with other values. Moving beyond productivity focus, great leaders inspire, reassure and guide everyone. They model their leadership values and instill them through the team.

True Courage requires being forthright, energetic, and fearless. Such courage can easily be misconstrued, but greatness does not come cheap. While the waves of change are real, often causing chaos before clarity, a great leader will understand the signs in time and take bold action.